

As a life-time resident of NJ, my family and I have enjoyed the freedom from unwanted, annoying solicitation phone calls since we signed up for "Do not call" registry. I do not believe that the current New Jersey law should be weakened in any way.

I do not think that the interests of business should supercede the privacy rights of citizens. If I am interested in contacting a business, I will make the call. Otherwise, unsolicited calls are an invasion of my privacy.

Our family experience has also been that many such businesses also frequently "prey" on lonely senior citizens in the hope that they will make an unwanted, unneeded purchase. This was the experience of my father and mother-on-law -- both 75+. Fortunately they were smart enough to hang up on aggressive solicitors.

Please consider my comments as well as the overwhelming number of people who have signed up for the "do not call" registry since its implementation. Apparently their wish is not to be bothered by business offers and solicitations in which they have no interest. Thank you.
